ECONOMIC COMMISSION

Baruch and Davison to Study Need of Raw Material.

Washington, Dec. 9.—(1. N. S.)—To act as an economic commission to take up the problem of determining what raw materials this country will have to furnish in the reconstruction and rehabilitation of the war-stricken countries of Europe, Bernard M. Baruch resigned as head of the war industries board, and Henry P. Davison, chairman of the War council of the American Red Cross are soon to proceed overseas, it was announced at the White House executive offices Saturday.

The work will be undertaken at the direct request of the president, who conferred with Baruch and Davison in this connection before he sailed for abroad. The announcement was authorized by radio from the George Washington, upon which the president is now enroute to Paris.

The appointment of this commission at the present time, was regarded here as significent of the president's desire to have normal conditions restored abroad at the earliest possible moment, particularly in view of the spreading bolshevik movement in many quarters. It was stated that the president from the very beginning has maintained the attitude that machinery capable of restoring normal conditions should be set in motion without waiting for zetual reace to be concluded.

It is known that the rew materials America must supply in the re-building of Belgium, and the devastated portions of France, will be enormous. But up to the present time, only a general conception of the varieties and the quantities has been obtained, and Messrs, Baruch and Davison without interfering to any marked degree with America's own building program.

"Unhappily, people on the side of Germany are still employing their old methods of incitement of false insinuations. Berlin wishes, as before, to divert the wrath of the German people on the enemy, and is behaving exactly as in the time of Von Ludendorff. The German press is still receiving watchwords from the wire-pullers in the foreign office, the same men who laid so indescribably thick the net of lies over the eyes of the German people."

Some Swiss newspapers recently are awakening to the fact that the world has been grossly deceived by Germany. This is one result of the Bavarian resolutions and the consequent recriminations.

The Hague, Dec. 8.—One of the most curious personalities thrown up by the German revolution is Will Heise, by profession a boatswain's mate and a submarine man, but at present, if he is sulfil aive, dictator in the Hamburg later expended to be absolute master he instill aive, dictator in the Hamburg is more rigidly orderly than ever before. Bremen to east of Lubeck. The origin of his position (if he is still dictator) is pictureaque.

About November 2 a huge meeting of Hemburgers, largely composed of marines, listened with impatience to the oratory of professional demagogues. Suddenly a man in sailor uniform elbowed his way out of the mob and climbed the ricket platform. In a voice which promptly commanded attention he spoke somewhat as follows:

"You don't know what you want. You are listening to a useless pack of professional demagogues and stump speakers. I will tell you what you want; you should elect one of yourselves to lead you. No go! Choose!"

Elected Himself,
There is a gap in history at this point, but later, when Heise again asked whether they were not going to choose some one, there was a roar of assent, "You've elected yourself!"

Heise proceeded to establish himself in the senate's offices with the aid of a fleet of armored cars and so far has kept exemplary order by means of rather sharp methods. People caught picking pockets and house breaking are snatched up at the sound of a whistle and in an armored car are hurried off to the Altona barracks, there to be

Recognition by Allies Asked.

It appears that Heise and his schemes have been largely supported by people of considerable means, not less than $0,000 pounds being contributed without any compulsion for the payment of Heise's force of marines or crews of armored cars, but toward the end of November the funds were running low. When he had firmly established his dictatorship in Hamburg and extended control in each direction, Heise proceeded to advance his real scheme; namely, the establishment of a Hansa republic to embrace all the old free towns of the Hansa loague, and to become and remain completely independent of Berlin.

To what extent he is likely to realize this project I cannot say. He dreads only two eventualities: namely, an outbreak of anarchy probably in Bremen, and the successful resumption of power by Berlin. By the end of November he considered that things had gone far enough for him to seek outside recognition. He sent a delegation to Holland which included an English interpreter, to ask the recognition and support of the allies for "the republic of the lower Eibe." Their credentials were duly attested with the stamp of the Hamburg Soldiers' coupsel by crossed hands symbolic of the Hansa league and Heise's own signature. Recognition by Allies Asked.

Vranya, Serbia, Nov. 1.—(Delayed.)—Here is a story of cold-blooded butchery without equal even in this war. It is the tale of a deliberate, systematic effort by the Bulgarians, extending over three months, to exterminate the national spirit of Serbia by killing every one in the parts of the country they occupied whom they thought capable of maintaining it. To my mind the facts which I am about to relate are crimes which will earn for Bulgaria the odium of civilization. During these massacres the Germans, by contrast with the Bulgarians, appeared to the inhabitants of Serbia as protectors and agents of mercy.

I have gathered during the last three days from many different sources of information and evidence which establish the Bulgarian guilt beyond all doubting. Directly they had established themselves on Berbians by force into Bulgarians. After forbidding the use of the Serbian schools, compelling everyone to change the ending of his name from the Serbian "itch" to the Bulgarian mayors, bishops, tax collectors and military police, they arrested in every town and village all the men who belonged to what may be called the intellectual class.

The correspondent asserts that this and other efforts are being made to create sympathy for Germany. But it is gratifying to read the National Zeitung:

"Neutrals, take care. We are not utterly smashed that the same thus made terrible, is a small place called Surduliza, twenty miles northeast of Vranya, near the Bulgarian frontier. The doomed men against whom the Bulgarians had no other charge whatever except that they were patriotic Serbians and likely to keep up the national apirit among their fellow-countrymen, would arrive almost every day at Surdulitza under strong Bulgar guards. They were locked up in houses which I saw, and then at night marched down to a gully, which I visited, where, tied four or five together with ropes, they were stabled or bayoneted to death and buried where they lay. Punishment for the Guilty.

And now what is to be done to punish this cynically planned and brutally executed policy of murder? The names of the Bulgarian officers directly responsible for the butchery are known. Washington, Dec. 9.—Immediate passage of the woman suffrage amendment in recognition of the services rendered by the women of the country during the war was urged upon the senate in a resolution passed at a meeting here yesterday called by the National Woman Suffrage association. The efforts of American women in support of the country's fighting forces were described by a number of speakers, including Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, Mrs. Josephus Daniels and Miss Jane Delano, director of the American Red Cross.

Dr. Shaw spoke of the pledge of loyalty and service to the government given by the National Woman Suffrage association when Rs country entered the war, adding that it has "faithfully kept that pledge, helping in the world struggle for the same fundamental principle which has underlaid its half century of endeavor."

"Now the war is won," Dr. Shaw continued, "and there lies before us a vaster work than ever before and the co-operation and service of women is necessary to its accomplishment."

Mrs. McAdoo said the history of American women during the war "is the last word, the direct and conclusive general on the first draft support gan an organized fight against these diseases fifteen years ago, the report says, and the demands of the country now have been aroused until a nationwide campaign is being waged not only against the diseases them-selves but also against the underly-ing social conditions on which they flourish.

Fail of Alhucemas Cabinet Another Stage.

(London Times-Phil. Ledger Cop. Cable.)

Madrid. Dec. 9.—The fail of the Alhucemas minfstry marks another stage in the dissolution of the old politics, but the transition from old to new by constitutional methods will be very slow.

Whether socialist and republican forces will wait seems doubtful.

The machinery of the state is in serious confusion; the financial affairs of the country are in chaos. Two governments have come to grief without being able to pass the budget. Now the question of Catalonian autonomy will not wait—if the state government cannot attend its affairs Catalonia will establish its own government.

proof of their fitness for self government."

Mrs. Daniels asked if American women, after having helped so vitally to make the world safe for demacracy, should not now be given a greater opportunity through the ballot to make it a safe place in which to rear the coming generations of boys and girls. Miss Delano spoke of the valiant work of American nurses at the front, who, she said, had "established a new tradition for bravery in action, many of them having, earned the highest honors which the world has to offer."

London, Dec. 9.—All German warships under construction are to be handed over to the allies immediately, although the German government has protested against this procedure, said a news agency dispatch from Berlin today. The allies demand that Germany furnish within forty-eight hours, lists of all the warships built or being built, including river ships, while the new cruiser Mackensen must be towed into some harbor to be specified.

The return of British and Belgian merchant ships by the Germans will take place at the mouth of the Trans (on the British roass).

"The fear of a counter revolution is ridiculous" the Tageblatt continues. "Everybody, knows the old imperialistic militaristic regime is definitely disposed of. But we shall fail again in our contact with the outside world if the old system is now to be succeeded by the autocratic rule of the Soviets."

Central Team Defeats Two Army Quin

Before an audience that aimost taxed the gallery of the Y. M. C. A. symnasium, two teams from the army camp went down in defeat in a double header basket ball game with the senior class "Y" teams. The "Y" team, captained by Charlie Thompson playing against the base hospital group team, captained by David L. Dunn, former basket ball star at Yale, had a hard tussle and victory was only achieved by the superb support of Redd and Moore, who played on the defense entirely, to Thompson and Wheelock, who when the ball was worked up to them rarely falled to make their shots score. The entire "Y" team played together in such a way that with further practice this team should develop into one of the strongest teams ever put out by the Central "Y", and should be a strong contender for championship honors. The army team worked out some splendid passing and while showing the result of more practice in floor work than the "Y" boys, they were weak on shooting goals. The score ended 22 to 17 in favor of the "Y" and the line-up was as follows:

She told me how one of the Bulgar of florers responsible for the long series of murders had at first lived in her house with herself and her husband. The organization and subsequent demobilization of the students army training corps at the University of Chattanooga has not caused as much have as was at first surmised. The students who will leave school now that their solder days are over are not such a large percentage as was anticipated.
As was the case at other organizations throughout the country, the local unit of the S. A. T. C. contained many men who would not have seen their way clear to attend school if the government had not made its proposition to pey their expenses and a salary. But many of these same men have become so much imbued with the idea of getting an education after their period of enlistment that they have determined to continue.

Although it seemed a short while ago that between one-half and one-third of the men would quit college after the actual demobilization it has been found that the number will be much greater. Many of the students are as yet undecided as to their course, but it is fairly certain that considerably more than two-thirds of the students at the local school will stay, at least until the end of the term.

Dec. 9.—Interest has been aroused here by the discovery in various hiding places of 108 iron-bound, securely locked, trunks, at the home of Count Oscar Bopp Von Oberstadt, air enemy alien, who, since his coming to America in 1914, has been under the surveillance of the department of jus-surveillance of the department of justice.

The trunks were found when operatives, informed of mysterious happenings at the Oberstadt house, entered the place and searched it under a search warrant.

Oberstadt, who had spent some time in an English internment camp before coming to America, is said so have been active before this country's entrance into the war, in an effort to prevent American trade with the allies.

The trunks were not opened, the operatives said, because they would have to be broken with sledges, and the count was absent. His chauffeur said they contained nothing but clothes.
